Art at Council Tuesday, January 9, 2024

Tonight's Art at Council is an acrylic painting by Jack Prasad. The painting is part of his Changing Colours Collection and has been part of the City's Private Art Collection since 2010.

Jack, a self-taught artist, discovered his love of art as a young child growing up in the Fiji Islands. Early on he created very intricate pen and ink drawings of classic boats, motorcycles, and cars. After living in Canada for many years and appreciating the beautiful and scenic backdrops of the BC West Coast, his focus changed to forests and the ocean. Jack's medium of choice is currently watercolour and acrylics. He adds brilliant dimension to his artwork by layering paint, sometimes even using fluorescent paints.

Jack has been part of Port Moody's arts community for many years. He's a member of the Port Moody Art Association and has exhibited at the Port Moody Arts Centre numerous times.

Unfortunately, Jack is not here with us this evening, but we are delighted to have this painting on display in City Hall.
